VOL. L., No. 5.

NEW YORK, August 1, 1896.

WHOLE No. 1279

D. APPLETON & CO.'S NEW BOOKS.

A BOOK FOR THE TIMES.

The Monetary and Banking Problem.

By LOGAN G. MCPHERSON. 12mo, cloth, $1.00.

THE HON. DAVID A. WELLS says:

"I regard McPherson's 'Monetary and Banking Problem' as a most excellent book, and a valuable addition to our recent educational literature on the nature, origin, and function of money, which one must thoroughly and correctly understand before he can be able to reason correctly about the silver problem."

An Outcast of the Islands.

By JOSEPH CONRAD, author of "Almayer's Folly," etc. No. 198, Town and Country Library. 12mo, paper, 50 cents; cloth, $1.00.

The romance and tragedy of the South Seas are pictured with singular vividness in this remarkable book.

"Unquestionably one of the strongest and most original novels of the year."—London Athenæum.

"A work of extraordinary force and charm. . . . Once more we breathe the languorous air of those mysterious islands set amid the far Eastern seas. Here is an old world indeed made new by the romancer's magic."—London Daily Chronicle.

"A very striking novel. . . . There is on every page the unmistakable note of genius."—The Sketch.

"A remarkably fine romance. . . . Surely this is the real romance—the romance that is real."—The Saturday Review.

NEW EDITION OF

A Journey in Other Worlds.

A Romance of the Future.

By JOHN JACOB ASTOR. With nine full-page illustrations by Dan Beard. Sixth edition. 12mo, paper, 50 cents.

"The story merits favor for its ingenious conception and its readability. Mr. Astor takes full advantage of the many opportunities for wedging in appropriate little astronomical lectures, and his fascinating story can be heartily commended for its substantially interesting and entertaining qualities."—London Literary World.

"An interesting and cleverly devised book. . . . No lack of imagination. . . . Shows a skilful and wide acquaintance with scientific facts."—New York Herald.

Yekl.

A Tale of the New York Ghetto. By A. CAHAN. Uniform with "The Red Badge of Courage." 12mo, cloth, $1.00.

"A new and striking tale; the charm, the verity, the literary quality of the book depend upon its study of character, its 'local color,' its revelation to Americans of a social state at their very doors of which they have known nothing."—New York Times.

Maggie: A Girl of the Streets.

By STEPHEN CRANE, author of "The Red Badge of Courage," etc. Third edition. 12mo, cloth, uniform with "The Red Badge of Courage," 75 cents.

"By writing 'Maggie' Mr. Crane has made for himself a permanent place in literature. . . . Zola himself scarcely has surpassed its tremendous portrayal of throbbing, breathing, moving life."—N. Y. Mail and Express.

The Red Badge of Courage.

An Episode of the American Civil War. By STEPHEN CRANE. Tenth edition. 12mo, cloth, $1.00.

"A book with a mighty theme. . . . Stands absolutely alone."—Boston Transcript.

Sir Mark.

A Tale of the First Capital. By ANNA ROBESON BROWN. 16mo, cloth, 75 cents.

"One could hardly imagine a more charming short historical tale. . . . It is almost classic in its simplicity and dignity."—Baltimore News.

D. APPLETON & CO., Publishers, 72 Fifth Ave., N. Y.

❧ ❧ TWO BOOKS. ❧ ❧

The Ascent of Woman.

By ROY DEVEREUX. 16mo, cloth, $1.25.

"To criticise music or painting without some special qualification and some technical knowledge of the art would be considered an unwarrantable presumption. But any callow youth or inexperienced spinster lacking alike in knowledge of life and literary ability is accepted as a competent critic of woman. . . . It is of course as necessary to set a woman to catch a woman as a thief to catch a thief."—Author's Introduction.

"I wish the women who write ponderously of commonplace ideas would take a peep at these amusing, clever, and thoughtful essays, where wit and style and theories go hand in hand, and even tolerate discussions on dress at the end of the book. A spade is certainly called a spade here, but it is used to make the 'ascent,' and not to serve up sentimental nonsense or probe emotions born of want or exercise. Surely this fresh, bright book is far cleaner, broad and sweeping though its theories may be, than the nonsensical novel with an erotic heroine and a wild-eyed hero who never could or should or will be understood."—New York Commercial Advertiser.

" . . . But when a writer keeps fresh, piquant, and original through a whole volume on the new woman something almost like enthusiasm is called for, as one would be moved to exclamations of wonder should he behold a dried mullein stalk suddenly blossom like the rose. . . . From title-page to its last leaf this is an exceptionally clever book, and one that no new woman, or old one, can afford to do without."—New York World.

"This is, indeed, an up-to-date work. Woman, her needs, her desires, her purpose, her mission, attract that attention and demand that hearing that the strait-laced conventionals of a century ago would have never dared to prophesy. And this book is one of the signs of our times."—Boston Courier.

The body of the book is divided into two parts, the first being called "Of Her Life"; the second, "Of Her Looks." The six chapters of the first part have the following titles: The Fruit of the Tree of Knowledge; The Value of Love; The Practice of Marriage; The Maternal Instinct; The Sisterhood of Woman; The Feminine Potential. In the second part there are seven chapters, as follows: On the Progress of Fashion; On the Significance of Style; On Color in Costume; On the Expression of Extremities; On the Invisible; On the Superfluous; On the Ideal.

IN PREPARATION FOR EARLY PUBLICATION

Poems.

By JOHANNA AMBROSIUS. Translated by Mary J. Safford. 16mo, cloth, $1.50.

"How she acquired the exquisite literary style she possesses will not be explained this side of the hereafter. Not a false rhyme nor a halting foot in her verse, not a figure but rings true, she who never heard of grammar nor rules, . . . nothing so precious has come from the Fatherland since the hymns of Luther and the writings of Goethe."—Phila. Telegraph.

"Here is a woman who, by sheer force of genius, has risen in a few months from a common laborer of the fields to be known as one of Germany's most popular modern poets. The striking thing in her poems is their lyrical quality. Whether the thought be sad or helpful, the singing quality of the verse is ever apparent."—N. Y. Tribune.

THE PUBLISHERS' TRADE LIST ANNUAL is now ready for binding. Publishers who may have been delayed up to date in sending their lists may, by special arrangements with the Office of THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY, and a payment of an additional $10, still be represented, provided they send their lists before the 7th inst.

NOTES IN SEASON.

THE HOME PUBLISHING CO., New York, will publish very shortly "Her Foreign Conquest," a dramatic and humorous novel, by Col. R. H. Savage, author of "My Official Wife."

THE EXCELSIOR PUBLISHING HOUSE (T. J. Carey & Co.), 26 City Hall Place, N. Y., have just ready "Lawler's American Sanitary Plumbing," practical notes for plumbers, steam-fitters, architects, builders, apprentices, and householders, by Jas. J. Lawler; also, "The Gold and Silver Question at a Glance," a comprehensive and instructive manual for those who want to learn the A B C of the money question from the standpoint of one who advocates the gold standard.

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS have just ready "A History of Oratory and Orators: a study of the influence of oratory on politics and literature, with examples from the lives of the famous orators of the world's history," by Henry Hardwicke, a member of the New York Bar; "The Strange Schemes of Randolph Mason," a volume of stories by Melville Davisson Post, in which are presented some curious problems in connection with the existing criminal laws; and the New York Herald $1000 prize poem—"Abraham Lincoln, the poem of the people," by Lyman Whitney Allen ("Sangamon").

THE AMERICAN PUBLISHERS CORPORATION, New York, have just ready paper editions of the following books: Herman Melville's "White Jacket, or, the world in a man-of-war," and "Omoo, a narrative of adventure in the South Sea," in the Illustrated Series; and his "Moby Dick, or, the White Whale," in the Belgravia Series; "The King's Daughters," by Ellen E. Dickinson, in the Series of American Novels; "The Cuban Liberated, or, saved by the sword," by Robert Rexdale, in the Belmore Series; "Christine," by Adeline Sergeant, in the Windermere Series; and the following additions to the Fortnightly Series: "Eunice Quince, a New England romance," by Dane Conyngham; "As the Wind Blows," by Eleanor Merron; and "Jill, a London flower girl," by L. T. Meade. In August they will publish, in the Fortnightly Series, "Lou," by Baron von Robert, and "The Average Woman," by Wolcott Balestier; and in the Lakewood Series, "Joshua Wray," by Hans Beattie, formerly commissioner of the New York City street-cleaning department.

THE MACMILLAN COMPANY have already published a considerable number of books bearing more or less directly on the history of England, including narratives of its political history, its constitutional and industrial development, etc., and will very shortly add to these "An Introduction to the History of the Church of England, from the Earliest Times to the Present Day," by Henry O. Wakeman, author of a volume in the Periods of European History Series on "The Ascendancy of France, A.D. 1598-1715." The book is not a manual or text-book, but is rather an answer, in a short and convenient form, to the question, "How is it that the Church of England has come to be what it is?" The author aims to trace the origin of that which has proved to be permanent in the history of the Church, and to indicate in his outline all that is structurally important. He has laid special stress upon those periods in which the Church was occupying new ground, influenced by new ideas, working under new conditions adapting herself to new needs; such, for example, as the periods of her establishment, her development under Norman influence, her reformation in the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries, and her revival in the nineteenth.

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.*

The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. c. after the date indicates that the book is copyrighted; if the copyright date differs from the imprint date, the year of copyright is added. Books of foreign origin of which the edition (annotated, illustrated, etc.) is entered as copyright, are marked c. ed.; translations, c. tr.; n. p., in place of price, indicates that the publisher makes no price, either net or retail, and quotes prices to the trade only upon application.

A colon after initial designates the most usual given name, as: A: Augustus; B: Benjamin; C: Charles; D: David; E: Edward; F: Frederic; G: George; H: Henry; I: Isaac; J: John; L: Louis; N: Nicholas; P: Peter; R: Richard; S: Samuel; T: Thomas; W: William.

Sizes are designated as follows: F. (folio: over 30 centimeters high); Q. (4to: under 30 cm.); O. (8vo: 25 cm.); D. (12mo: 20 cm.); S. (16mo: 17½ cm.); T. (24mo: 15 cm.); Th. (32mo: 12½ cm.); Fe. (48mo: 10 cm.). Sq., obl., mar., designate square, oblong, narrow books of these heights.

Andrews, G. A. Composite geometrical figures. Bost., Ginn & Co., 1896. c. 6+57 p. D. (Mathematical ser.) cl., 55 c. [2476]

Designed to meet the need felt in the author's classes at the High School, Worcester, Mass., for the specific application of geometrical principles. Ninety per cent. of average pupils fail when asked to perform original abstractions. Pupils are hereby to be taught to select the figure needed for the demonstration of the given proposition from among those not bearing on the subject, thereby showing they have grasped the principle taught, although unable to invent the figures for its demonstration. The examples and questions under the figures are also suggestive for original work.

Bardeen, C. W. A manual of common-school law. [New ed. enl.] Syracuse, N. Y., C. W. Bardeen, 1896. c. 2+290 p. S. (Standard teachers' lib.) cl., $1. [2477] is 1825-1896. Bishop Ryan worked especially for the cause of temperance. The history of the Diocese of Buffalo is briefly outlined, and there is incidental mention of the Catholic institutions of which Father Ryan was patron. An appendix gives the tributes of the Catholic press and secular press, and of the Catholic clergy, with the action of the Protestant clergy, also poems and the will of Bishop Ryan. A letter from Satolli is included.

First published in 1875. The matter has been changed in the various editions, as required by new statute laws, but has never been entirely rewritten until this issue, which is entirely up to date. It includes the author's "Handbook for school trustees," and adds all questions in school law given at uniform examinations from the first to March, 1896; with full answers as published by the State Department, corrected to date according to changes in the law. A new chapter on rules and regulations is added, and the references are extended. The law relating to school officers is based on New York law. References to the laws of other states, however, are made. Contains a key to references and index.

Cunningham, W. G. E. Young people's history of the Chinese; with an introd. by Rev. Collins Denny. Nashville, Tenn., Publishing House of the M. E. Church, South, (Barbee & Smith, Agts.,) 1896. c. 285 p. por. il. D. cl., $1. [2491]

The author states that in a catalogue of 250 works on China he has found but three especially intended for young people, all three small biographies. He has here selected salient features in the national character and history to give young people a just idea of the country and the people, and to make them acquainted with the political problems which have recently brought China so prominently before the world. He was for nine years missionary in China.

Eccles, W. M. Elementary anatomy and surgery for nurses: a series of lectures delivered to the nursing staff of the West London Hospital. N. Y., imported by C: Scribner's Sons, 1896. 158 p. il. 12°, cl., $1. [2492]

Eddy, Dan. C., D.D. Saxenhurst: a story of the old world and new. Phil., American Baptist Pub. Soc., [1896.] c. 5-440 p. il. D. cl., $1.50. [2493]

Saxenhurst, an old manor in Kent, was built by Sir John Baker, during the reign of Edward VI. The strictly historical story describes the manor after political affairs had forced Robert, Earl of Dorset, to seek its retirement. Roger Williams and others prominent in the non-conformist movement are chief characters. Roger Williams's emigration to America and the incidental history of his founding the first Baptist church in America in 1639 are among the important events introduced into the story.

 Simplifies and classifies in a series of readers and charts the problems involved in acquiring the art of reading music. The plan is systematic and progressive, from the first presentation of the major scale through every principle and fact of vocal music reading to the completion of the study in the public schools. Songs selected with discrimination are included and even the exercises have true melodic character. Each reader of the course contains four national songs of our country.

Pellerin, C. Median neurotomy in the treatment of chronic tendinitis and periostosis of the fetlock; tr. with additional facts relating to it by A. Liautard, M.D. N. Y., W: R. Jenkins, 1896. c. 61 p. il. O. bds., $1. [2545]

Affections of the tendons of horses are described in detail. Cauterization has been the remedy chiefly employed hitherto. Now the French author resorts to the knife. Horses used on the pavements of large cities are the great sufferers from the disease. Lameness has been cured by his method, and horses long unable to perform remunerative work have been entirely cured. Describes many cases in detail.

Poindexter, C: Richmond: an illustrated handbook and guide; with notices of the battlefields. Richmond, Va., J. L. Hill Print. Co., 1896. c. 112 p. S. pap., 25 c. [2546]

Contents: Historic synopsis; streets and parks, street-car lines, points of interest, buildings and monuments, tours of the city, business interests, educational, religious, social and military, hospitals and charities, railroads, etc., battlefields. The tone is descriptive and non-partisan.

Poland, W: The truth of thought, or material logic: a short treatise on the initial philosophy, the groundwork necessary for the consistent pursuit of knowledge. Bost., Silver, Burdett & Co., 1896. c. 208 p. D. cl., 90 c. [2547]

Written to expound the fact of knowledge, the possibility and grounds of certitude, and the conscious possession of certified knowledge. The author insists that all new philosophies should be taught as far as possible in the phraseology of philosophers the world has accepted. The final philosophy of the truth of thought is that it is the law of man's nature and that he must abide by it.

Ross, Edmund G. History of the impeachment of Andrew Johnson, President of the United States, by the House of Representatives, and his trial by the Senate for high crimes and misdemeanors in office, 1868. [N. Y., H. B. Philbrook, 17 William St.,] 1896. c. 3+180 p. O. cl., $1.25. [2550]

Andrew Johnson, who had become President after the assassination of Abraham Lincoln, came into controversy with Congress as to the restoration and preservation of the Union. It was decided to make use of the constitutional power, which had lain dormant since the organization of the government, to impeach and remove the President. The accusations were that the acting President had corruptly used the appointing power, the pardoning power, and the veto power, and had corruptly disposed of public property of the United States. This volume gives the whole trial. President Johnson was declared not guilty by the court of the Senate before which he was tried. Senator Ross was one of the seven Republicans who voted against the impeachment.

Formerly published by T. B. Peterson & Bros., Philadelphia.
- Stickney, J. H. Pets and companions: a second reader. Bost., Ginn & Co., 1896. c. 16+142 p. il. sq. D. (Study and story nature readers.) bds., 40 c. [2560]
Begins with a list of words rather more difficult than generally used in second readers. There are nature studies on many household pets and common animals and insects, interspersed with simple little stories in largetype. The teacher is supposed to encourage the children to give oral expression to facts they know as well as to read these stories. Suitable for children from seven to nine years.

A supplementary reader for public schools. Containing poems and short stories dealing with facts of natural history, and notes for the teacher, explaining methods. The system is the one used in the St. Paul schools, Second and Third readers.
- Sturgis, Julian Russell. A master of fortune. N. Y., F. A. Stokes Co., [1896.] c. 95. 192 p. 1 il. nar. S. (Newport ser.) cl., 75 c. [2563]
Alan Cartaret, prospective heir of Sir Simon Cartaret, suddenly awakened to his social and moral obligations when he saw the wretched condition of the Cartaret tenantry in Stranger's Court, London. After an interview with Sir Simon, who refused to consider the improvement of his tenements, Cartaret relinquished his inheritance, and as Alan Carter mastered his fortune and fate in the original way described.
- *Texas. Ct. of criminal appeals. Reports, during part of the Tyler term, 1894; the Dallas term, 1895; and the Austin term, 1895. Rep. by J: P. White. V. 34. Published by the State, 1896. c. 16+768 p. O. shp., $4.50. [2564]
- United Confederate Veteran Association. Memorial of the 6th annual reunion of the United Confederate Veteran Association and the laying of the corner-stone of the Jefferson Davis monument, Richmond, Va., June 30, July 1-2, 1896. [Richmond, Va., J. L. Hill Print. Co., 1896.] unpub. il. obl. D. pap., 50 c. [2565]
A historical description of Richmond, illustrated with views of important places and buildings. Gives portraits of many prominent citizens with short accounts of their businesses and occupations. Designed especially for the strangers who visited Richmond to take part in the programme of reunion and also as a souvenir for the families of Confederate veterans.
- *United States. Circuit cts. of appeals. Reports, cont. cases determined in all the circuits from the organization of the courts, fully reported with annots. V. 18. St. Paul, West Pub. Co., 1896. c. 32+752 p. O. shp., $2.85. [2566]

- Veteran (pseud.) Initiatory French readings: premières lectures. N. Y., W: R. Jenkins, [1896.] c. 155 p. maps, D. cl., 75 c. [2568]
The subject-matter of "First French readers" is, as a rule, scrappy and unattractive. This little reader gives first a simple history of the best-known facts of American history, the author claiming that the familiarity with the subject assists in retaining words. The second part does the same for France. American children travel through France and pick up information. A good French and English vocabulary of words employed is furnished as appendix.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

AUGUST 1, 1896.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications. All matter, whether for the reading-matter columns or advertising pages, should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Publishers are requested to furnish title-page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers depend on the WEEKLY solely for their information. The Record of New Publications of THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is the material of "The American Catalogue" and so forms the basis of all trade bibliography in the United States.

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."—LORD BACON.

THE VALUE OF APPRENTICESHIP.

In these days of the inverted, or tobogganing, system of trade, one lesson to be learned from the business career of the late Joseph Wesley Harper, Jr., deserves to be especially emphasized—the value of his apprenticeship and thorough training for the position he was intended to occupy. His ancestors had faith in the principle that the way to succeed in a calling is to begin at the bottom. To this principle and the slow process it necessitates is due the success and solidity of the house of Harper & Brothers, as also that of D. Appleton & Co., Charles Scribner's Sons, and the few others who through panics, war, and other crises remain standing and grow steadily, if slowly. No doubt the process to the superficial seems discouragingly slow. The ancestry of the houses mentioned, according to these reasoners, wasted ten, twenty, or thirty years of their lives in acquiring first the rudiments and then the inner ramifications of their trade or profession, and even then, forsooth, admitted that they were always learning or ready to learn. The modern generation considers this modus operandi eminently ridiculous. They thank their stars that they have changed all this. They are born with the silver spoon of knowledge in their mouths; for them there is no wearing of the swaddling clothes of commercial infancy; no drudgery of learning the A B C of technical trade; no laborious climbing of the ladder of prosperity. The topmost rung of the ladder is the place for them to begin. So callow youth rushes into business that gray-haired men hesitate to undertake, and learns it downwards, beginning at the top of the edifice and gravitating downwards sometimes even to the bankruptcy courts, perchance carrying one or more of their eager supporters with them in their course. General Grant was once asked why it was that certain men who had been eminently successful in business were such dismal failures as military commanders. His reply was, "Unfortunately they began their military career as major-generals." The application of the moral is self-evident. No young man can hope to succeed in any career, least of all as a publisher or bookseller, unless he is willing to undergo a thorough apprenticeship in the rudiments, and a probationary period in the higher branches of his calling. After he has absorbed the elements of his chosen work, and gradually expanded his knowledge until it has embraced and assimilated the broad principles and minute details of his occupation, he may enter into the estate of the master. Of this the late Joseph Wesley Harper, Jr., was an illustrious example. To invert the process is to invite defeat, which in nine cases out of ten is inevitable.

THE ANNUAL DINNER OF COMMERCIAL TRAVELLERS OF THE BOOK TRADE.

THE representatives of the book trade celebrated their annual reunion in July, in Chicago, by a banquet, held at the Palmer House, on Wednesday evening, July 22. The guests sat down to discuss the dinner shortly after eight o'clock. Speeches were made and a most enjoyable evening was passed by all. The ceremonies of the evening were opened by the chairman and toast-master, Samuel Carson, who recited an adaptation of "Tom Moore's" famous poem, "And does not meeting like this make amends?" J. H. Tewksbury responded to the toast "Chicago, the Giant City of the Plains"; Frank Morris, to "The Ups and Downs of a Bookseller"; George Noble, to "Health, Wealth, and Prosperity of the Chicago Book Trade"; Jeffrey M. Ruston, to "Large Orders"; L. Coues Page, to "Boston"; L. Howes Crowell, to "The Modern Missionary, sometimes called a Travelling Man, and not always as good as he ought to be"; and J. Fred Waggoner, to "Friends of 'Auld Lang Syne' and our absent loved ones."

The guests were also entertained by songs, which were delightfully rendered by Messrs. Solomon, Caldwell, and Turner. Al. Macmullen—"Our Coachman"—recited a "poem," which was enjoyed by all, and David McKay told one of his many humorous stories.

David McKay also led the touching ceremony of passing the loving cup, and performed the duty to the gratification of all. Tomasco's full string orchestra gave some very fine musical selections throughout the evening.

Credit is due to Messrs. Carson, Caldwell, Irish, and their assistants for the admirable manner in which everything was arranged.

The clock was beginning to turn its hands to the small figures when the gathering broke up, with the wish being freely expressed that each year might see more and more around the festival board.

The following were the guests of honor: O. D. Irwin, of the Western News Co.; R. K. Smith, of A. C. McClurg & Co.; F. D. Drake, of Montgomery Ward & Co.; Owen Brewer, of Western Book and Stationery Co.; Geo. Noble, of A. C. McClurg & Co.; D. A. Allen, of D. A. Allen & Co.; J. H. Tewksbury, of Congregational Book Concern; C. M. Rowe, of Baptist Book Concern; T. P. Siddall, of A. M. Rothschild & Co.; E. D. O'Kane, of Western Methodist Book Concern; Myron H. Fish and Frank Morris, of Fleming H. Revell Co.; J. Fred Waggoner, of the Western Stationer.

The publishing trade was represented by the following members: Sam. Carson, of The American Publishers Corporation, N. Y.; A. L. Burt, of A. L. Burt, N. Y.; Jeffery M. Ruston, of Hurst & Co., N. Y.; R. F. Leask, of George Routledge & Sons, N. Y.; A. Wessels, of Thos. Whittaker, N. Y.; V. W. Cupples, of Lothrop Pub. Co., Boston.; L. Coues Page, of The Joseph Knight Co., Boston; John Macrae, of E. P. Dutton & Co., N. Y.; Arthur Saulfield, of the Merriam Co., N. Y.; D. D. Merrill, of Merrill & Baker, N. Y.; Fred Tuft, of Dodd, Mead & Co., N. Y.; Horace Riddings, of J. B. Lippincott Co., Philadelphia; Wm. Corrigan, of G. P. Putnam's Sons, N. Y.; David McKay, of David McKay, Philadelphia; F. E. Coombs, of W. L. Allison & Co., N. Y.; J. A. Solomon, of Frederick Warne & Co., N. Y.; Albert Turner, of Cassell Pub. Co., N. Y.; A. D. Macmillan, of The Rogers Co., Philadelphia; L. Howes Crowell, of T. Y. Crowell & Co., N. Y.; L. Nourse, of H. Altamus, Philadelphia; Fred D. Irish, of Lee & Shepard, Boston; Clarence A. Caldwell, of Estes & Lauriat, Boston.

HOW SOME ENGLISH AUTHORS INTEND TO PROTECT THEMSELVES.

"THE author has turned at last," says the New York Tribune, "and in a way of which not even the doughty Sir Walter Besant would seem to have thought before. There are two of him, the turning worm, and they dwell somewhere in provincial England. This is an extract from the circular they send with their book: 'As the authors highly disapprove of the skinny profits system of trade, the people being obliged to devote themselves entirely to their business, body and soul, the price through the trade will be 7s. net (order prepaid). Considering the amount of labor that has been expended in the production of this book, the price (5s. and postage) is not dear. The authors cannot undertake to pay tradesmen's profits for selling the book. Readers must do this themselves, or else purchase direct. No presentation copies. A limited number only printed. Reviewers requiring copies should apply early, sending cash with order, else no notice will be taken of it.' That last touch, for the reviewer, is certainly a master-stroke."

A COMEDY, OR A TRAGEDY, WHICH?

In Four Acts.

SCENE: BOOK-STORE IN SAN FRANCISCO.

Customer. Do you take subscriptions to magazines?

Clerk. Yes.

Customer. I want to subscribe to McMunton's Magazine; what is the price?

Clerk. One dollar per year.

Customer. Is that the best clubbing rate?

Clerk. It is the price of the magazine.

Customer. Well, send it for one year to my address, and commence with the January number.

[Pays one dollar and asks for receipt.]

Clerk then proceeds to bookkeeper, hands in a memorandum and procures a receipt.

Bookkeeper then enters the transaction, address, time of commencement, and term of subscription. He then takes a postal-order form, and makes out an application for post-office order for 85 cents; the boy is then sent to the post-office, three blocks away, for the money-order. On his return bookkeeper proceeds to write the necessary letter to the publisher, and encloses the money-order.

Cost: Magazine, 85 cents; post-office order, 3 cents; stamp, 2 cents; clerk's time, bookkeeper's time, boy's time, stationery.]

ACT II.

(Six days later.)

Customer. I have come to see about my magazine which I subscribed for some time ago. I have not received it yet.

Clerk. Well, there has not yet been time for it to arrive; it was ordered direct from the publishers to be sent to your address, but it takes a fortnight to get the first number from New York; afterwards it will come regularly by mail, as it is published; there will be no delay after the first number.

Customer. Oh, I suppose I shall have to wait, but I thought you would send me the first number up from the store.

ACT III.

(Two months later.)

Customer. I have come to complain that my McMunton's Magazine comes very irregularly. I see it in the shop-windows sometimes two days before I receive mine. It is very strange it is not attended to more promptly.

Clerk. Well, madam, it comes direct from the office to your address by mail, and we suppose you receive it as soon as possible after publication.

Customer. Well, I wish you would write to the publishers and tell them that it does not come on time, and ask them to mail it earlier.

Clerk. All right.

ACT IV. SCENE I.

(Three months later.)

Customer. I have not received my magazine at all this month.

Clerk. Haven't you? Well, that is too bad. I suppose you will be sure to get it in a day or two; it may have been delayed in the mail, or misssent.

Customer. Well, I have had to complain several times. I never had any trouble when I subscribed through Mr. Brown. Did you write about it when I asked you before?

Clerk (makes an equivocal answer and then says): Well, if you don't receive it in a day or two, let me know, and I will write again.

ACT IV. SCENE II.

(A few days later.)

Customer. My McMunton's Magazine for this month has not yet arrived, and I am very much annoyed.

Clerk. Well, really, I am very sorry, but I cannot help it. The fault lies rather with the publisher or the post-office, and I can do nothing.

Customer. Did you write about it?

Clerk (confidently this time): Oh, yes, but there has not been time for an answer at present.

Customer. Can't I take a copy for this month from your counter, because I have paid you for it, and it must have been lost in the mail? I haven't had it, and I want to read it.

Clerk (thinking this is the easiest way out of the difficulty): All right, and if your copy turns up, you can return it to me.

Customer. Well, I'm going to do some shopping. Can't you send it out to 3927 Western Addition? (Magazine, 10 cents; fare 10 cents.)

[Clerk says "Yes," but doesn't do so; thinks he will run the chance of the missing copy turning up by mail.]

ACT IV. SCENE III.

(Two days later.)

Customer (with fire in her eyes): I have called again about that magazine which I subscribed for through you, and which has been attended to so unsatisfactorily. I have had to call a number of times about it, and it is very annoying of you to give me so much trouble about it. I haven't had this month's, and you promised to send it up to my residence two days ago, and you didn't do it.

Clerk. The boy hasn't been going your way for a day or two, or I would have sent it along.

Customer. Well, why didn't you tell me you couldn't send it, and I would have taken it myself?

Clerk (who wants to be obliging): Well, madam, I will be sure to send it to day. (But this time he unfortunately forgets it.)

ACT IV. SCENE IV.

(The next day.)

Customer (in a rage, store full of people, in a loud voice): I want to see the proprietor.

[Proprietor has been busily engaged for the past half hour with a customer who is undecided whether to take a set of Thackeray at $75.00 or $125.00. He has just got him to see the advantages of the higher priced edition, the superiority of the engravings and type, and his customer has almost said, "Well, send me the best edition."]

Magazine Customer. Are you the proprietor?

Proprietor. Yes, madam.

Magazine Customer. I've come to complain of the most shameful treatment I have been receiving in this store. I subscribed for McMunton's Magazine several months ago, and it doesn't come regularly. Your clerk has promised to write about it, but I don't think he has done it. He promised to send me this month's number three times, and he has not done it, and I want to say that if you cannot supply it you had better give me my money back.

Proprietor. Madam, I am sorry the magazine does not come regularly, but I cannot hold myself responsible; your subscription was forwarded in the ordinary course and paid for, and the trouble is either with the publisher or the postman. It has been written about.

Customer. Well, but I don't get my magazine. Cannot you send me a copy every month from the store, and then I should be sure to get it?

Proprietor. No, madam. We have already forwarded the price of your subscription to the East, and cannot do this.

Customer. Well, I was never treated in such a manner before. I have paid for my magazine, and I cannot get it; if this is the way you do business I will transfer my trade elsewhere.

[Proprietor turns to his Thackeray customer and finds he has gone. Clerk says, "Mr. Wilson left word that he could not make up his mind which set to take, and he would bring his wife in next week."]

Proprietor (to clerk): John, if ever you take another order for McMunton's Magazine you may hand in your resignation at the same time.

WILLIAM DOXEY.

A MEMORIAL TO DR. WILLIAM FREDERICK POOLE.

THE American Library Association has twice, by a unanimous vote, decided to erect a memorial to the late Dr. Wm. F. Poole. At the Denver Conference the following were appointed a committee to consider details and solicit subscriptions: Frederick M. Crunden, chairman, librarian St. Louis Public Library; J. N. Wing, Charles Scribner's Sons, N. Y.; W. I. Fletcher, librarian Amherst College; and G. E. Wire, M.D., secretary and treasurer, 1574 Judson Ave., Evanston, Illinois.

The committee recommended that the memorial take the form of a bronze bust, to be placed in the Chicago Public Library or the Newberry Library with a suitable pedestal, and this recommendation was formally adopted.

Dr. Poole has other claims on the recognition of all cultivated people; but it is chiefly as a practical librarian that he will be remembered. He did more than any other one person in America to elevate librarianship to the dignity of a profession. In honoring him, therefore, library workers honor themselves and repay in some measure the debt of gratitude that every member of the fraternity, from the highest to the humblest, owes to his pioneer labors, his shrewd common sense, and his ready, helpful counsel.

In accordance with its instructions, the committee therefore appeals to library workers of every grade for contributions to a memorial in honor of one who, in character and deed, deserved so well of his fellow-men and did so much for his fellow-laborers. It is hoped that a prompt and universal response will be made to this appeal, so that the committee may make a definite report at the coming conference. Subscriptions may be sent to Dr. G. E. Wire, secretary and treasurer, or to any member of the committee.

FUNERAL OF JOSEPH W. HARPER.

THE funeral of Joseph Wesley Harper was held on Friday morning, July 24, at St. Thomas's Chapel, 230 East 60th Street, New York. The services were unostentatious. There were no flowers, and no pall-bearers, and the music consisted of familiar hymns.

The body was accompanied to the chapel from 562 Fifth Avenue by Mr. Harper's immediate family. The Rev. John Huske, curate of St. Thomas's Church, read the service.

"Lead, Kindly Light," "Softly Now the Light of Day," and "Jesus, Lover of My Soul" were sung by the regular quartet of St. Thomas's Church—Mrs. J. A. Gramm, Miss Emily Winant, Mr. Dennison, and Dr. Carl L. Martin.

George Macculloch Miller, James C. Fargo, H. C. Fahnestock, and John T. Atterbury, vestrymen of the church, were present. The chief mourners were Mrs. Harper, the widow; Henry Sleeper Harper, Mrs. Bradley A. Fiske, and Bradley A. Fiske. Among the other relatives present were J. Henry Harper, John W. Harper, and James Thorne Harper. There were also in attendance George L. Rives, Professor Butler, of Columbia University; John C. Southwick, Professor E. D. Perry, of Columbia; Professor H. T. Peck, of Columbia; Richard Watson Gilder, Frederick A. Nast, Professor Drisler, of Columbia; John Kendrick Bangs, E. A. Dowling, H. L. Nelson, Mrs. Margaret E. Sangster, E. C. Stedman, Charles Collins, Dr. Draper, Thomas Nast, Joseph L. Blamire, R. R. Bowker, H. M. Alden, Mr. Deshler, for many years connected with the Harper art department, and representatives of the employees of Harper & Brothers.

After the funeral services the body was taken to Woodlawn Cemetery and interred in the family plot.

OBITUARY NOTES.

LUTHER WHITNEY MASON, author and publisher of the National Course of Public School Music, died in Buckfield, Me., July 14, aged 68.

MARCELLUS R. WARREN, who began his career in the stationery business in Boston in 1858, died suddenly at Nantasket, Mass., July 15, aged 60.

WILLIAM HENRY SMITH, a well-known journalist and the author of a number of historical works relating to Ohio and the West generally, died in Lake Forest, near Chicago, July 26. He was born at Austerlitz, Columbia Co., N. Y., December 1, 1833. Among his more widely known books are a "Political History of the United States" and "St. Clair Papers."

CHARLES T. EVANS, who for many years was connected with the book trade, died at his residence in Mt. Vernon, N. Y., July 22. He was born in Sumatra, in 1823, and came to New York twenty years later, beginning as clerk in the book-store of M. W. Dodd. Some years after he formed the firm of Evans & Co., and carried on a subscription-book business at the corner of Fourth Street and Broadway, in New York City. After a few years he sold out his interest to his partner, Mr. Dickinson, and entered the employ of George P. Putnam. In 1858 he established himself at 327 Broadway, above Pearl Street, as agent for the sale of special books. In 1864 he went to Kansas and started the Ottawa Home Journal. He was at one time publisher of the Leavenworth Bulletin. Some years ago he severed his connection with the book trade and became an agent for the Mutual Reserve Company.

GEORGE BUSSEY LORING, senior member of the firm of Loring, Short & Harmon, booksellers and stationers, Portland, Me., died suddenly at Rockland, Me., of heart disease, on July 25. Mr. Loring went to Rockland on the afternoon train and on arriving there boarded an electric car, where he expired almost immediately. Mr. Loring was about sixty-two years of age and was born at Thomaston. He began his business career at an early age as clerk for Francis Blake, the bookseller. There he was associated with James Noyes, afterward of the firm of Bailey & Noyes. This was before the war. During the war Mr. Loring made several voyages with his uncle, Capt. Charles Haskell, and became a ship's officer, but in 1865 he associated himself with Leonard O. Short, under the firm-name of Short & Loring. They bought out the retail store of Bailey & Noyes, and although burned out in the fire of 1866 their business remained uncrippled. A new partner, C. C. Harmon, was admitted in 1868, and the style then became Loring, Short & Harmon, a name destined to acquire a wide and solid reputation among the business houses of New England. For twenty-eight years the firm remained unchanged. As a business man Mr. Loring was enterprising and devoted, so that few men of his State were better known or liked. He leaves a widow, son, and daughter.

CHARLES DICKENS, the eldest son of the novelist, died in London, July 21, aged 59 years. All his life long he had been known solely as the son of his great father. His inherited reputation had acted as a handicap rather than an aid, and the result was that he was not very successful. For many years Mr. Dickens was a partner in the printing-house of Dickens & Evans, in London, which eventually went into bankruptcy. At the time of his father's death, in 1870, Charles Dickens, Jr., was a clerk in the employ of the Baroness Burdett-Coutts. All through his last years the older Dickens tried to interest his son in literary pursuits, but without much success. After his father's death, however, he took charge of the magazine All the Year Round, and managed it with some degree of success, although in the end he was obliged to consent to its consolidation with Household Words, of which publication he became the editor. As a writer he did little beyond the compilation of some satisfactory handbooks of London, Paris, the Thames, and other localities. He also prepared the introductions to the edition of his father's works recently published by the Macmillan Co. In 1887 Mr. Dickens visited this country on a lecturing tour. He read solely from his father's writings, but the tour, though popular enough, did not prove a success financially.

JOHN GAST, the inventor of the "three-color" process, died in Brooklyn, N. Y., July 26, aged fifty-five years. He was born in Berlin, but was brought to this country when only a few months old. The family settled in St. Louis. Young Gast returned to Berlin to complete his education. He was graduated from the Royal Academy in Berlin, and returned to St. Louis, where he formed the Gast Lithographic Co. (now Gast-Paul). In three years Gast sold out his interest and went to Paris, where he studied chromo art under Thürlwanger. On returning, he established the New York Daily Graphic in New York in 1871. The Graphic was run successfully for about five years. One of its main features was a page devoted to lithographs made by a special process invented by Mr. Gast. Later on he started the lithographing firm of Gast & Co., now known as Grey & Co. After five years with this company he sold out his interest and started the Photo-chrome Company. This company used several processes which were invented by Mr. Gast, and soon gained a wide reputation in the lithographic world. He held seven patents on different fine processes for lithographing, but his process which is most widely known is the "three-color" process. About two years ago Mr. Gast left the Photo-chrome Company on account of failing health. For the last ten months he has been an invalid and a constant sufferer.

REUBEN LIPMANN, alias Roman Ivanovitch Zubof, alias the Count de Zubof, alias "Robert Appleton," ended his career by hanging himself in a cell in the Jefferson Market Prison, New York, July 29. Nothing is known of his birth. He claimed to be a Russian and, at the time of his imprisonment, said he was 29 years of age. He was unable to speak Russian and appeared to be about forty years of age. Zubof was first heard of in Dublin, where he appeared in 1886. Under the name of Lipmann he matriculated at Trinity College, but was never a member of the college, though influence procured him admission to the Philosophical Society, before which he actually read a paper. In Dublin he was associated with two Lithuanian Jews, said to have been Zubof's brothers, in a money-lending scheme that was carried on under the cover of an old-clothes business. After a short career in Dublin and London, where he had won and abused the confidence of such men as William Morris, Prince Krapotkin, Stepniak, the Rossettis, and others, and had served a term in prison for forgery, he came to this country in 1889. He made his home in Boston, where he made great pretensions as a Russian nobleman. He soon became a favorite with the leading literary set in the Back Bay; he also became a welcome contributor to leading Boston and New York journals, and everything went swimmingly with him until John Boyle O'Reilly exposed him in the Boston Pilot as a literary thief. For a time he maintained his position, but one after the other his victims dropped him. To revenge himself he wrote a novel entitled "Mrs. Harry St. John" (1892), in which he made scurrilous attacks on a number of his former protectors. After this episode he was completely ostracized from society in Boston. Since then he lived in Chicago, Philadelphia, and New York, where his buncoing methods met with varying success. In December last he came to New York, and put up at the Waldorf. From there he went to the Hotel Cambridge, at Fifth Avenue and Thirty-third Street, where he lived until May 30 without paying his bills. He left on that date, saying that he was going to Philadelphia. His trunks and other belongings remained at the Cambridge. He was seen accidentally on the 27th ult. in the corridor of the Murray Hill Hotel by Mr. Walters, the proprietor of the Cambridge, who dunned the bogus count for the amount of his bill. Zubof promised to call on Mr. Walters on the 30th, but instead of calling he made the mistake of informing Walters that he was about to sail for Europe, and promised to pay on his return. Walters promptly secured a warrant, and arrested Zubof a few moments before the New York, of the American Line, left her dock. An hour later he was found hanging to the door of his cell, his handkerchief having been tied round his neck and attached to one of the upper bars. He published the following under the pseudonym of "Robert Appleton": "Mr. Philip St. Clair" (1893), "Elena, a story of a Russian woman" (1894), "After the Manner of Men" (1894), "Violet, the American Sappho" (1894), and "Rise of Mrs. Simpson" (1895). In 1890 he published, as by Count Zubof, "Viera: a romance 'twixt the real and ideal," which, like most of his written work, was branded as a plagiarism. For a short time he edited a department in The Newsman.

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

THE issue for July 25 is the "Fiftieth Anniversary Number" of the Scientific American, published by Munn & Co., 361 Broadway, New York. The number covers 72 folio pages and comprises a review of the progress of industrial arts and sciences during the past fifty years. The following are the titles of some of the subjects treated: The Trans-Atlantic Steamship, Railroads and Bridges, Physics and Chemistry, Progress of Printing, Iron and Steel, Phonograph, Telephone, Naval and Coast Defence, The Sewing-Machine, Electric Engineering, The Locomotive, Photography, Telegraph, Telescopes, and The Bicycle.

GEORGE WATKINS, Indianapolis, has in preparation the first number of the Magazine of Americana. The design of this journal will be to place, four times a year, before collectors, booksellers, and librarians a complete register of new books published in this country and abroad, which relate to the antiquities, history, and geography of America, the West Indies, and the South Sea. As only geographical, historical, and antiquarian works are to be described in the lists, the Magazine of Americana will have features of permanent interest and worth, present and hereafter, to the bibliographer, the historian, and the student of New World history. In the bibliography of new books, which will be first in the order of contents of each number, the title of each work will be printed, word for word, as in the original, with the place and date of printing, publisher's name, number of volumes, pages, maps and plates, size and binding, to which will be added a table of contents. The Magazine of Americana will give especial attention to old books, and will print bibliographical notices of and extracts from old accounts of the early voyages, discoveries, conquests, settlements, explorations, and travels in America between the years 1492 and 1800, by the Spanish, Portuguese, French, Dutch, English, and other nations. The first issue is promised for October next.

BUSINESS NOTES.

AUGUSTA, GA.—Z. T. Stiner, bookseller, is dead.

BOSTON, MASS.—We regret to learn that Wm. B. Clarke, doing business as Wm. B. Clarke & Co., booksellers and stationers, has been obliged to make an assignment.

CHICAGO, ILL.—A. C. Kasten, manager of the retail stationery department of A. C. McClurg & Co., has gone to Europe in the interests of his house.

CRIPPLE CREEK, COL.—E. E. Salisbury will open a book-store here.

DES MOINES, IA.—The Des Moines Book and Stationery Co. has opened business at 514 Walnut Street. D. H. Hooker is president of the company, Chas. M. Schissler, vice-president and secretary, and Daniel L. Barker, treasurer and manager.

MONMOUTH, ILL.—The doors of the R. A. Wilson Furniture, Book, and Stationery Co. were closed July 16, under chattel mortgage for $7700, given to parties in this place and to the United Presbyterian Board of Publication. Inability to make collections is the cause assigned.

NEWBURG, N. Y.—Oliver W. Boothroyd has opened a book and stationery store at 26 Colden Street. Mr. Boothroyd was formerly a member of the firm of Boothroyd Bros.

NEW YORK CITY.—According to the Critic, "A. I. du P. Coleman has established the Fordham Press at 185th Street and Third Avenue. The name has a literary flavor, as befits a printing establishment in Poe's old home; and Mr. Coleman himself is an accomplished man-of-letters, of American birth but Oxford training."

PHILADELPHIA, PA.—The Historical Publishing Society and Henry S. Smith, individually, have made assignments for the benefit of their creditors. The liabilities are stated to be $125,000 and the assets $300,000, of which a large portion is in machinery and stock which cannot be immediately realized upon. Slow collections caused the failure.

SACRAMENTO, CAL.—The stock of Henry Fuchs, newsdealer and stationer, is advertised for sale.

VAN BUREN, ARK.—Eugene Bennett, bookseller, has sold out to B. C. Covey.

VICTOR, CAL.—The Victor Book and Stationery Co. has given a chattel mortgage for $1447.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

THE USEFUL KNOWLEDGE Co., New York, has just issued a work entitled "The Art of Rising in the World," by Henry Hardwicke.

C. KEGAN PAUL is about to sever his connection with the publishing house which it is customary in trade circles to indicate by his name. Mr. Paul's retirement is greatly due, we are sorry to learn, to his recent accident in the streets of London.

D. B. IVISON, having recently retired from business and the presidency of the American Book Co., of New York, will shortly leave Rutherford, N. J., for a trip around the world. He will be accompanied by his wife and daughters, and William W. Hill, a son-in-law.

ALL of Rudyard Kipling's poems and stories—and, for that matter, the poems and stories of other distinguished English authors—are copyrighted in this country, and their quotation in newspapers or elsewhere is a violation of the copyright law, carrying serious penalties.

JOHN MURRAY, London, has in press two new works by Edward Whymper. These are "Chamonix and the Range of Mont Blanc," with 65 illustrations and maps; and "Zermatt and the Matterhorn," with 70 illustrations and maps. The first-named may be expected very shortly.

THERE are supposed to be about 4000 paper factories in the world, according to the available statistics. These produce annually about 7,900,000,000 quires of paper. About half of this amount is used for the printing of books, and 600,000,000 quires are used for the printing of newspapers. England uses the most paper, then follow, in the order named, the United States, Germany, France, Austria, Italy, Mexico, Russia, and Spain.

ARMAND COLLIN & CIE., Paris, have issued two books on economics, intended to bring home to serious readers several of the social problems of the day. "L'Economie de l'Effort" (The Economy of Effort) gives a sketch of the economic history of the world, and dwells upon the fact that all progress depends upon reaching the most useful effects with the least effort. The author shows the means employed by humanity in the different phases of development, how these have been gradually perfected, and also points out such as have failed of their object. The second book, "La Synergie Sociale" (Social Synergy), by Henri Mazel, treats of the correlation and conservation of forces for the good of humanity at large. The author treats his subject historically, and insists that all things work together for good if the one object kept in view is the good of all.

FOR some time booksellers and others who cater principally to Catholic priests have been in the habit of giving merchandise in exchange for masses said for them by the priests. A sum ranging from $1 up, according to their means, is usually charged Catholics for masses, and this money goes into the pockets of the assistant priests or curates. Those who had any commodity to exchange for masses gradually got into the habit of offering it to the priests in lieu of money, and the latter willingly accepted it, inasmuch as they thought it better than nothing. But the ecclesiastical authorities got wind of the practice, and the following edict has been issued against it by the Sacred Congregation at Rome: "Certain booksellers, merchants, and others, erroneously interpreting the disposition of the Holy See, offer books and other wares to priests who are to celebrate a certain number of masses, the corresponding honoraria of which are to be retained by the merchants as the price of the books or wares offered. In order that priests may not be led into error on this point, it is hereby made known that such a proceeding is severely forbidden under the penalties sanctioned in the decree Vigilanti, which emanated from this Sacred Congregation of the Council on May 20, 1893." A copy of this notice has been sent to all the priests of this archdiocese.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted," subscribers on y are entitled to a free insertion of five lines for books out of print, exclusive of address (in any issue except special numbers), to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent, the excess is at 10 cents per line, and amount should be enclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents per line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents per line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

Under the heading "Situations Wanted," subscribers are entitled to one free insertion of five lines. For repeated matter and advertisements of non-subscribers the charge is 10 cents per line.

All other small advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents per line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no accounts must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their communications.

Parties desiring to receive answers to their advertisements through this office must either call for them or enclose postage stamps with their orders for the insertion of such advertisements. In all cases we must have the full address of advertisers as a guarantee of good faith.

Houses that are willing to deal only on a cash-on-delivery basis will find it to their advantage to put after their firm-name the word [Cash].

THE PRINCIPLES OF THE TRANSFORMER.

By DR. FREDERICK BEDELL, of Cornell University. 8vo, cloth, $3.25, net.

This book contains an extensive treatment of the laws and principles governing the operation of the transformer. A feature of the work is the unity and sequence of treatment, the method of treatment being such as to make it valuable to the practising engineer as a work of reference, and to the student as a text-book. The book contains chapters on Transformer Systems of Distribution, the Design and Construction of Transformers, Constant Current and Constant Potential Transformers, the simple theory and the general theory of Transformers, effects of hysteresis and foucault currents, Transformer Diagrams and Transformer Testing. Graphical methods are freely employed. This volume contains about 400 pages with over 200 illustrations.

NEW BOOKS.

A HISTORY OF ORATORY AND ORATORS.

A Study of the Influence of Oratory on Politics and Literature. With examples from the lives of the famous orators of the world's history. By HENRY HARDWICKE, Member of the New York Bar, the N. Y. Historical Society, etc., author of "The Art of Living Long and Happily," etc. 8vo, $3.00.

Public speakers will find in it many valuable hints and suggestions, while the general reader will be interested in the picturesque and graphic sketches of the great orators of antiquity and of modern times. The author has clearly stated their methods of preparing speeches, and habits of study, and he has also given many interesting personal descriptions of these famous men, together with a multitude of biographical details which will prove of deep interest to the reader.

THE STRANGE SCHEMES OF RANDOLPH MASON.

By MELVILLE DAVISSON POST. (No. 16 in the Hudson Library.) 12mo, paper, 50 cents; cloth, $1.00.

Mr. Mason's volume presents some curious problems in connection with the existing criminal law. The stories based on his studies are interesting in themselves, but they will be likely to arouse special attention with the apparent inadequacy of the law and the necessity of some amendments for the better protection of society.

ABRAHAM LINCOLN.

The Poem of the People. By LYMAN WHITNEY ALLEN (Sangamon.) 12mo, $1.00.

This poem won the $1000 prize offered by the N. Y. Herald for the best poem dealing with American history.

THE BABE, B.A.:

Being the uneventful history of a young gentleman at Cambridge University. By EDWARD F. BENSON, author of "Dodo," etc. Illustrated. 12mo, $1.00.

The series, of which "The Babe" is the third and last issue, comprises stories of college life by representative college men. The stories have been prepared with the view of presenting (and preserving) trustworthy and graphic pictures of college life on either side of the Atlantic.
